How do I remove a user from Triumph without having to validate

You can terminate system users without needing to do a full validation.

To do this the user must have full access rights to the Enquire on System Users option (S-M-E).

Once in this menu option, select the user you wish to terminate and click on the terminate button.

Validations will still be necessary if a user crashes out whilst in Single-User mode.

Important Notes

You should not use this method to terminate users if they are actively using the system, because files can be left open.

Terminating a user by this method does not automatically close the files on the network server or the file on a local computer if a user is still logged in. Normally the operating system will close these open files after 10 to 15 minutes, but this cannot be guaranteed. Files remaining open can give an ERROR 4177 when validating. To clear this error the files must be closed.

If users are in the system, you should ask them to log out properly from their workstation and not just boot them out using this option.
